Short presentation of the 2025 Annual Conference

The Faculty of Law of the Bucharest University of Economic Studies together with the European Society of Banking and Financial Law - Romania, the Association of Legal Counselors from the Banking and Financial System, the Romanian Banking Association and the Romanian Society of Business Law, with the participation of representatives of the main professional organizations in the field and Romanian officials, organize the 18th Annual International Conference „Perspectives in Banking and Financial Law”.

This year's conference is entitled:” The impact of AI on European Banking and Financial Sector”.

The event offers the opportunity to all those interested in the field of banking, financial law and new technologies to discuss and debate ideas and visions regarding the technological evolution and its impact on the banking and financial regulations as well as the ways of managing the current challenges in the banking environment.

The event will be attended by representatives of the main professional organizations in the field from Europe and Romania, officials from the public sector, alongside practitioners, researchers and academics from the country and abroad, interested in banking, financial and FinTech law.

Call for Papers

Scholars, research fellows, post-docs, researchers, and PhD students are invited to submit their research on the conference topics.

Special consideration should be given to National regulation and the new IA Act in areas pertaining technological products used by the banking and financial environment.

The papers selected by the Scientific Committee will be published in the journals partner to our Conference after being presented during the Conference:

- Revista de drept bancar și financiar - review published by Ed. Rossetti, indexed BDI
- European Business Law Journal – a double-blinded peer-reviewed open-access international academic review indexed BDI (Ebsco, Heinonline, CEEOL)
